

window

? “window” object represents the current working browser window.

? browser creates only one window object.

? It has the following methods & properties href

This property represents the url of the current working/running/viewing web page in the browser window.

window.href

window.href=newurl

▪ screenX

this property represents X-cord of current browser position on the screen

Syn: window.screenX

window.screenX=Npx

▪ screenY

this property represents Y-cord of current browser position on the screen

Syn: window.screenY

alert()

confirm()

prompt()

parseInt()

parseFloat()

setTimeout()

call back, timer, it exe task, only once after n sec setTimeout(fun/fe/af, “interval”)

setInterval()

call back, timer, it exe task, repeatedly for every n sec setInterval(fun/fe/af, “interval”)

clearTimeout() □ it stops/removes timeout

clearTimeout(t-index)

clearInterval() □ it stops/removes interval

clearInterval(t-index)

print()

this method displays print dialog box, which is used to print the current webpage/document through the selected printer.

most browsers before printing the page, they show "Print Preview" also.

Syn: window.print()